

GREAT CROWD HEARS BYRD

Democratic Nominee For Congress and R. R. Friend, of Irvine, Speak to Powell County Voters.

CLAY CITY, Ky., Oct. 31.—Hon. A. Floyd Byrd, Democratic nominee for Congress from the Tenth Congressional District and Robert R. Friend, of Irvine, Ky., Saturday addressed the voters of Powell county at Stanton and Clay City. The speakers were greeted by the largest audiences that has attended a political speaking in this county for years.

Here as elsewhere numbers of Republicans expressed their intentions of supporting the Democratic nominee. His convincing logic was effective in driving home his arguments on the issues of the campaign and it was freely predicted on all sides that the normal Democratic majority of Powell county will be materially increased.

BURLEY POOL SALES TUESDAY

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 31.—Sales of tobacco will not begin on the local market Monday as usual but will open Tuesday, and on that day the auction of the Burley Society's 1909 pooled crop will also be resumed on the floors of the Lexington warehouses, after having been suspended for several days.

The reason for the postponement of the loose leaf sales is that the new crop is coming in comparatively slowly and after conferences Friday afternoon the warehousemen decided that it would be best for them to wait until Tuesday in order that more tobacco might be on the market. The sales were comparatively small on Thursday and Friday and the growers seem to be anxious to dispose of the worst they have in their barns first.

IMPORTANCE OF THE STUDY OF FORESTRY

State Federation of Women's Clubs
Has Outlined Courses of Study on the Subject.

The State Federation of Women's Clubs has interesting outlines for courses of study in forestry for use in schools or women's clubs.

The importance of the study of forestry is well illustrated in the Proclamation by President Roosevelt (while in office) to the school children of the United States:

"Arbor Day (which means simply 'Tree Day') is now observed in every State in our Union and mainly in the schools.

It is well that you should celebrate your Arbor Day thoughtfully for with in your lifetime the Nation's need of trees will become serious.

If you neglect to prepare your selves now for the duties and responsibilities which fall upon later, if you do not learn the things you will need to know when your school days are over, you will suffer the consequences. So any nation which in its youth lives only for the day reaping without sowing and consumes without husbanding must expect the penalty of the prodigal, whose labor could with difficulty find him the bare means of life.

A true forest is not merely a store house full of wood, but as it were a factory of wood and at the same time a reservoir of water. When you help to preserve our forests or plant new ones you are acting the part of good citizens. The value of forestry deserves, therefore, to be taught in the schools, which aim to make good citizens of you. If your Arbor Day exercises help you to realize what benefits each one of you receives from the forests and how by your assistance these benefits may continue they will serve a good end.

CHILD FALLS AND LOSES HER EYESIGHT.

MT. STERLING, Ky., Oct. 31.—Little Ollie Caywood, 18-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gano Caywood of this county, was playing on a table when she suddenly fell to the floor. Her head struck heavily and a nerve in the back of her head was affected, causing the sight of the left eye to be destroyed. The little one was hurriedly picked up and brought to this city, where a examination of her injuries was made. Dr. Reynolds, an eye specialist, after the examination, announced the eye permanently injured and the sight forever gone but said he did not think it would affect the child's appearance.

Mr. Norris, cattle buyer, was here last week and made many purchases, among them 350 head of James M. Bigstaff, average weight 1,500 pounds at 6 cents; 150 of J. T. Highland, average weight 1,400 pounds, at 6 cents, and 60 of Henry C. Hall, average weight 1,450 pounds at 6 cents. These cattle were bought for the Baltimore market, as were all the cattle Morris purchased. Mr. W. B. Greene purchased of Ben F. Mark 40 cattle, average 1,400 pounds, at the prevailing prices. There are yet about 1,000 cattle for the export market unsold in this county.

NEW PLAY BY THE COLLEGE

Will Be Put on in November Under the Directions of Professor Dalgety.

Encouraged by the success of past efforts the college is hard at work on a new amateur play. This play is as usual for the benefit of the Athletic Association. It includes the best talent of town and will be well up to the standard that has been set by the other plays put on under its direction.

Professor Dalgety will again have charge of the work and hopes to duplicate or even excel the former play in merit of rendition. He takes hold of the new play with the added experience derived from a successful summer engagement with the Vaughan Glasses Company which played in the new $700,000 playhouse in Rochester, N. Y.

The play selected is a society free comedy of the time of the Napoleon period. It is bright, sparkling and full of quaint situations and humor. It was written for and acted by one of the foremost stars of the American stage.

The title of the piece is "Phoebe's Romance in Quality Street."

OPERA HOUSE.

The following comment is taken from the Lexington Herald. The play will appear at the Winchester opera house on Saturday night:

"The House of a Thousand Candles" was the bill at the opera house matinee and night Saturday, and pleased two good-sized audiences immensely.

"The story from which the play is wrought out, in itself an entertaining one without being in any sense a strong story, suffers little, if any, in the dramatization, and in the hands of a thoroughly competent company is a pleasing stage creation.

"The star character of the book, as well as of the play, is 'Bates,' the imperturbable, taciturn, resourceful butler of the house of Glenarm with a man with a post to conceal and a vivid and dramatic present to enact. All other dramatic personae revolve about Bates and his activities throughout a story that contains many a thrill. The part was competently taken by George D. Winn, who while suffering in comparison with the eminent and talented E. M. Holland, who last essayed it in Lexington, nevertheless portrays it admirably and to the credit who never had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Holland he would be more than acceptable.

"Miss Rosabelle Leslie, who played the part of Marion Devereaux, unfortunately was suffering seriously from the prevailing malady that usually attends the first autumn cold wave and was able to speak her lines only with great difficulty, so great was her hoarseness.

"Jack Glenarm was done by Donald Gregory, who with his jolly Irish friend, Larry Donovan, portrayed by Joseph Belmont, put on a realistic and rousing old-time North of Ireland 'scrap' in the third act, when the crooked minions of the law attacked the Glenarm home for the purpose of dishonestly dispossessing Jack Glenarm of his grandfather's mansion.

"The piece throughout is thrilling enough to rouse both the gallery and lower floor to a frenzy of excitement in more instances than one, and leaves a decidedly good taste in the mouth of its auditors at the close."

NAUTICAL ALMANAC FIGURES

Great Care Exercised in Preparing Tables for the Guidance of the Sailor.

It may be safely said that no one outside the publishing office has read the entire "Nautical Almanac" from beginning to end, but each figure of the printed almanac is, in the office examined twice and read three times. The total number of figures exceeds a million, but great as the number is it is trifling compared with the number of figures employed in the calculations, as the almanac figures represent "bare" results only. The moon, for instance, requires for its calculation more than a million and a half of figures, and similarly with other branches of the work, such as the sun, planets, etc. Contrary to the general opinion, practically every figure in the book is fresh from year to year. The tables from which nearly all the work is calculated have been originally constructed from the labors of the astronomical observer, and to a larger extent from the observations of the sun, moon and planets made at the Royal observatory, Greenwich. Telescopes and other astronomical appliances are conspicuously absent, as the work of the staff is purely mathematical and not observational. From "The Sailor's Bible" in the Strand.

Worth the Risk.

Those timid men who are very cautious about showing any polite attention to their wives, in the fear that their continuance will be expected, ought to be brave enough to try it once and take a chance.
